

An Apology

Lé Gris Ventre*, December 2025 - Number 109

The problem with publishing a quarterly magazine such as Lé Gris Ventre is that when an error is made or a printing defect occurs the correction or apology has to wait three months until the next quarterly edition is published. The December edition, just published, reached the Parish Hall late on Friday 18th November. Packing began almost immediately. Only later was it discovered that a printing glitch had caused a large number of errors. We have asked the printers, Mailmate Print, which has been printing the magazine perfectly for many years, for an explanation. It seems that non-compatible computer programmes are responsible. The copy was perfect at the third proof reading and the Publication Committee wishes to apologise not only to the readers but also the writers of articles for the printing glitches. We take this immediate opportunity to do so in which Mailmate Print join us.

Ken Syvret, Editor.

2nd December 2025